

The Da'luk

Cultural Center Name

It is with great excitement that I share with you the name of our Cultural Center:

Da gou rou louwi' Cultural Center

Da gou rou louwi' means "the ongoing (continuous) return of all."

*Pronounced as:

Da (sounds like "dau"; 'd' is a sound between doe and stow; 'a' sounds like caught)

Gou (sounds like "goo"; 'g' is a sound between gill and skil; 'ou' is a sound like cool and you)

Rou (sounds like "roo"; 'r' as in rumor; 'ou' is a sound like cool and you)

Louwi' (sounds like "loowee"; 'l' as in loud; 'ou' is a sound like cool and you; 'i' is a sound between beat and bit)

This is a fitting name because our hope is to not only to return cultural, ceremonial, and sacred items back to our people, but also the return of our people, our language, our practices, the plants and animals we use for medicine, food, and cultural items, in addition to clean water, air, and land. Da gou rou louwi' Cultural Center will be a place for all of these items, practices, and people to return to so we can build a cohesive community for Wiyot people to gather, learn, revitalize, and reclaim our traditional practices as we live in the larger non-Native society. We wish it to be a place of learning, education, sharing, and information.

*Note: When the Da gou rou louwi' Cultural Center website is up and running, we will be sure to post an audio clip of the pronunciation of the Center so you can hear how to say the name.

Da gou rou louwi' Cultural Center Update

We have started to meet with vendors and contractors about the updates that are needed for the safety, accessibility, and overall usability of the building. This process is moving slowly, but there is movement.

Our building is located at 417 Second Street, Eureka. Watch our Newsletter for ongoing updates!

East entrance from the Gazebo side of the building.

Looking from the stairs to the Mezzanine area to main floor. You can see the Welcome Desk at the back of this picture.

There is an elevator in the building that will help transport people and items for us.

Da gou rou louwi' Cultural Center Survey

The Da gou rou louwi' Cultural Center will be home to classes, lectures, and presentations, as well as displays of our cultural and historical items. There are questions on the survey about these topics. For example, what information would you like to see presented at the Center sooner rather than later? What about classes - what types of traditional cultural practices would you like to learn? What sort of presentation and discussion topics would you like to hear and learn about? Are there any presenters you would like to see and what topic would you like them to discuss? For those tribal citizens who do not live locally, what would you like to see presented in an online format? We will be holding Soulatluk (Wiyot language) classes at the Center, too!

I have been receiving surveys in the mail and online. Hou' (thanks) to those who have already responded! If you have not filled out a Survey yet, please feel free to send me one when you are able. I will accept them into the foreseeable future to ensure as many voices are involved in the future planning and development of exhibits, classes, and demonstrations. Based on your input, I will prioritize displays, classes, and informative discussions that you want to see first. If you do not have internet capability, or just prefer writing your thoughts down, please see the "Cultural Center Survey" included in November's Newsletter. The Survey was included in that Newsletter, along with a stamped envelope, so it is easy to return the Survey. If you lost track of your November Newsletter and need a Survey, the Survey can be found on our tribal website. There, you can download the PDF, fill it out, and mail (or fax or email) it back to me. Just look for the link on our main page. Finally, I am happy to speak with you on the phone and jot down your ideas. Feel free to give me a call if you prefer to give me input about our Cultural Center this way.

If you have any questions or would like to chat about the Da gou rou louwi' Cultural Center, the survey, or anything else, feel free to contact me. I can be reached at (707) 733-5055 or matkins@wiyot.us.

We are looking forward to welcoming everyone to the new Da gou rou louwi' Cultural Center!

An Invitation from the Community Health Worker Collaborative

The Community Health Worker Collaborative invites interested tribal citizens to participate in the development of a Community Health Worker program for the Wiyot tribe. In August of 2020, Tribal Administrator Michelle Vassel joined the Community Health Worker Collaborative as an advisor representing the needs of tribal citizens. We are now building a Wiyot group and welcome your participation.

The CHW Collaborative is a group of fourteen organizations working together to support the development of Community Health Worker programs for underserved populations. Participating organizations include the Wiyot Tribe, Yurok Tribal Wellness Court, Native American Pathways, Hmong community representatives, Open Door Community Health Centers, and College of the Redwoods. Cooperation Humboldt is the coordinating organization.

Community Health Workers are trusted members of their communities who, because of their relationships, are able to effectively provide education and support to improve the health of individuals and their communities as a whole.

The program will provide job training, job placement, and health support services for chronically underserved populations in Humboldt County, including people experiencing substance use disorder, homelessness, mental illness, and lack of access to health and wellness services and education.

Currently, the CHW Collaborative is supporting five Hmong women as they develop a community garden, help elders access Western health care services, and help Western health care providers respect Hmong traditional healing. The CHW Collaborative is also working with five Yurok women who are inspired to create a program in collaboration with Child Protective Services. The Yurok Community Health Workers hope to send caring community health workers to support parents with substance use disorders who've lost their children to CPS, to reduce those parents' tendencies to use more drugs out of despair.

All of the participants in the CHW Collaborative create their own programs to meet the needs of their own communities, share resources with other groups, and work together to improve the health and wellbeing of our communities.

If you have ideas about how you can work to support the health of the tribe, or you would like to become a Community Health Worker for the tribe, please contact us at humboldtchw@gmail.com.

WNRD Community Advisory Committee

Last month we announced the formation of a Wiyot Community Advisory Committee. The purpose of the Community Advisory Committee (CAC) is to improve and promote communication between NRD and Tribal staff, Tribal membership, Tribal partners and collaborators, and various agencies that create policies and manage lands within Wiyot Ancestral territory. The WNRD recognizes the importance of participation and buy-in from Tribal membership and wishes to increase communication between the department and Tribal members.

The meeting was initially scheduled to be held sometime in November, that has been pushed back to Tuesday December 15 at 5:30 pm. This was done to provide more advance notice to Tribal members to increase and promote better participation. For your convenience, Zoom login information for this meeting is posted below.

WNRD plans Native Plant and Weather Station Installations as part of FY2021 EPA CWA Programs

Ha'wa'lou from the Wiyot Natural Resources Department (WNRD). We hope that this newsletter finds you all happy, healthy, and well as we continue to deal with the Coronavirus pandemic and enter into the rainy season. Indigenous peoples follow the cycles of the seasons, and the WNRD try to emulate these traditional knowledges when planning our fiscal year. With the drought that has plagued California since 2014, it has become more important to make the most out of the wet season, and to monitor how it is changing along with the climate. As wildfires and record heat waves become more common in California, the North Coast's role as a climate refuge will become more attractive for climate refugees, humans and plant and animal species alike. Anyone who has been blessed to experience Table Bluff (Giloulh) can attest to its cool micro-climate, which is why it hosts unique and rare species, like the federally endangered western lily (Lilium occidentale), who became restricted to the coast as temperatures warmed after the last Ice Age.

To continue to protect and monitor our environment, the WNRD and Tribe are thankful to be assisted by the Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA) Clean Water Act (CWA) programs, such as the general assistance program (GAP) and the Section 319, Non-point Source Pollution Control program. As part of the GAP program this year, we will expand climate and weather monitoring activities at TBR and around ancestral territory, by the installation of a mini-weather station at TBR, to help inform the greater community and monitor climate change. We also plan to install soil moisture monitoring equipment in the wetland, which allows us to see saturation and then dry-off following the rainy season and into summer, a good indicator of stress on vegetation and wetland resources.

As part of the CWA 319 program this year, the WNRD will be installing native plants along the roadway drainage swales and retention basins at TBR. Vegetation helps to slow, spread, and sink stormwater run-off, which when coming off roadways and lawns can carry a myriad of pollutants, from motor oil to fertilizer and pesticides. Planting native plants of course brings multiple benefits to the ecosystem, by providing food and pollen to insects, which increases native bird populations and pollinators, while also providing cultural opportunities associated with particular plants. In this sense, we try to encourage eco-cultural restoration by planting species that are both native and Wiyot cultural-use species, which allows for both restoration of the ecology, while also providing opportunities to pass-on cultural activities associated with plants. We will be hoping to plant sooner than later to make the most out of the rainy season, which seems to be getting shorter and later every year. If you want to see certain species or locations around TBR planted with natives, please reach out to the WNRD and we'd love to have your input. We wish everyone a safe and happy holiday season! Get outside!

Our culture is a living spirit that must continue to thrive. Our generation must carry on with the traditional ways and the stories from our elders and ancestors that have gone before us.

The Cultural Department has been very focus on the return of our ancestors and artifacts that are in museums that have been taken from our tribal lands in the past and present. We are continuously working with the local governments and government agencies on projects that come in daily. We are in the process of bringing ancestors and ceremonial regalia home from Berkeley. This will be happening soon; we are taking precautions on bringing these ancestors home during this pandemic crisis.

We are working with the staff at Berkeley on the transfer process. Once they are home, we will put out a news release. These ancestors and ceremonial regalia have been away far to long.

We are also in the process of setting up future regalia classes here in the near future for tribal citizens we will be doing virtual classes until it is safe to be able to do in a public setting. We are also looking forward to partnering with the Blue Ox Mill in Eureka on working on building our first dugout with the youth. This will be taking place in February of 2021. We will be sending out notices when it comes closer to doing the workshop.

We are in the process of making Sashes and necklaces for 2021 high school and 8th grade graduates. Please contact Hazel James at (707)733-5055 or email hazel@wiyot.us. Please let her know by January 30, 2021 if you know a tribal youth that will need one.

The language department:

We one year into our 2-year IMLS grant to create a Rou Soulatlouy Wiyot conversation book. Pilar & I continue to research, draft, & illustrate (Pilar) content for the grant. Due to COVID-19, we have discontinued face-to-face workshops indefinitely, and are requesting & receiving community input via Facebook, Padlet (an online tool for sharing ideas: <https://padlet.com/lynnika/6u11w4hhim8ixftt>), and via packets provided to Tsek Houdaqh. Recent topics we've been working ɔn include birds, school & school activities, and directions (north, south, etc.).

We have approximately 15 draft conversations currently in the works, with more on the way.

I have been working with Marnie Atkins to come up with an appropriate name for the new Cultural Center. We have narrowed it down to several Wiyot phrases that have to do with return/homecoming (of traditions, songs, regalia, etc.).

Our application for the NAL@ED grant (for language classes to be taught at Loleta Elementary) was unfortunately not funded this year, but Marnie and I will be meeting soon to look at the reviews of our proposal to see how we can strengthen it for next year.

Tsek Houdaah Youth Program:

Tsek Houdaah team held a Trunk and Treat for youth on the reservation with the help of all the departments. Social distancing was practiced during the event. The children had a great time with this event.

Tsek Houdaah is currently closed to the public, We are looking forward to the day when we can open to the children off reservation after this crisis. We are hoping that everyone is staying safe, wearing masks, and washing and sanitizing hands more frequently.

Christmas is right around the corner this year we at Tsek Houdaah will be doing a drive thru Santa. Santa will be on the reservation on December 19th at 1pm. Please contact Hazel James via phone 707-733-5055 ext. 118 or email hazel@wiyot.us by December 9th close of business. Please let her know how many children are in household with ages and gender. So that we can start getting gifts ready.

JOM:

If your children need assistance with homework. They can contact Margaret Card our JOM Coordinator at Tsek Houdaah (707)733-5055 or at mcard@wiyot.us.

HOW EEL LOST HIS BONE

Kutaw (Eel) said to Carogock (Sucker), "You have bones, and I have bones, and you have a mouth of the same kind as I have. You suck and I suck. So, let's gamble. They started gambling to see who might win all their bones. In a little while Sucker won all the bones. He really beat Kutaw bad. Kutaw didn't know what to do and said, "All I want now is that you make a little present to me, even though you won the bet. I want my backbone again and I want my teeth." So nowadays that is all that Kutaw has, his backbone and his teeth.

Road to Resilience

Here at UIHS, we are always looking for opportunities to better serve and support our clients in their overall health and wellness. We are very happy to announce that we have partnered with First 5 Humboldt to offer a new program called Road to Resilience. This program will be a great addition to the services we provide in Community Health and Wellness!

What is Road to Resilience?

Road to Resilience aims to support women that are pregnant and/or parenting and experiencing or at risk of experiencing Substance Use Disorder. By connecting these families to a Community Health Representative (CHR), Road to Resilience hopes to help families overcome barriers to accessing much needed services, and provide them the support needed to help achieve goals and find wellness.

How do I enroll with Road to Resilience?

You can enroll in Road to Resilience by contacting Community Health and Wellness at Potawot Health Village and you will be connected with a Road to Resilience CHR. You and the CHR will fill out the enrollment form together, answering any questions you may have.

You can also talk to your provider about Road to Resilience they can help connect you with a CHR in your community.

What services does Road to Resilience offer?

Once you are enrolled you will work with a Road to Resilience CHR to develop a personalized plan and set goals to support you in your wellness journey. CHRs can provide:

- Transportation to/from appointments
- Help with navigating referral systems and community services
- Porch Visits/ Home Visitation
- Connecting you with available community resources
- Childbirth education
- Parenting Support
- Support you in completing Plans of Safe Care or other service plans
- And more!

These are just some of the services Road to Resilience can provide for you and your family.

If you would like more information on Road to Resilience please contact Community Health and Wellness Front Desk: (707) 825-5070

Meet our Road to Resilience Community Health Representatives:

Teal Sanderson - Road to Resilience CHR – Del Norte County

Tracy Crutchfield – Road to Resilience CHR – Humboldt and Eastern Humboldt County

Ashley Villagomes – Road to Resilience CHR – Humboldt CO.
